DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN

EASTERN DATES TO SEPT

EASTERN STATES

Speech by Schurz

WATERTOWN Wis Sept 19—The demonstration for Schurz to day was the largest popular gathering ever assembled in the State. The only personal allusion was to a St Louis paper which but a few days ago said I ought to make my next speech at Watertown where I left behind me desolated homes and maledictions of robbed families but I see no such indications to day.

Sales of Gold—Stocks etc

NEW YORK Sept 19—One million of gold was sold by the Treasury to day. It was all taken by a clique. The announcement of the sale of only a million caused great excitement in the Gold Room and a rapid rise in the price. Larger sales by the Treasury only resulted to the advantage of the clique. Stocks were excited and unsettled all day by frequent fluctuations. It continues a special feature and the corner shows no sign of breaking. Pacific Mail is the most active.

A Lie Refuted

ERIE, Pa Sept 19—Congressman Schofield disposes of the Credit Mobilier slanders so far as relates to him in a card to be published tomorrow in which he says he has never received a cent's worth of stock in the company.

State Fairs

ST PAUL, Sept 19—From 15 000 to 20 000 persons were at the State Fair. An address was delivered this afternoon by Frederick Watts, Commissioner of Agriculture.

GRAND RAPIDS Mich Sept 19—The Knights of Templars of the State visited the Union Fair this afternoon.

NEWARK Sept 19—President Grant visited the State Fair at Waverly this afternoon and was welcomed by a large concourse of people, numbering upwards of 2 000. In the evening he visited the Newark Industrial Fair which was densely crowded—thousands being unable to enter. He was subsequently entertained by Gov Ward, and serenaded.

Greeley Swinging Round the Circle

PITTSBURG, Sept 19—Greeley reached this city this evening and was escorted by a large torchlight procession from the depot to the St Charles hotel where he delivered an address from the balcony. Said he: There is a time for war and a time for peace. Pittsburg recently witnessed a rehearsal of the pomp and pageantry and blustonry of civil war. Very large numbers of men were collected at a vast expense for the purpose of reminding us of the bitterness hatred and fierce exultations of civil war for he advantage of a political party. A greater portion of the journals of Pittsburg as well as the orators on that occasion have been trying their best to make us people hate each other for political advantage. Are we never to be done with talking about rebels and traitors? We demanded of our adversaries to a great war that they surrender their arms and go home—they surrendered them. We demanded the enfranchisement of the blacks. We demanded the emancipation of slaves should never be paid for as the rebel debt shall never be paid by the Government or by the State. They assented to that. So far as I can see every demand made on the part of loyal States has been complied with by those lately in rebellion.

A Nut for the Grecleyites of Indiana to Crack

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept 19—The Straight out Democratic State Convention met in the Senate Chamber this evening. It was called to order by Maj W C Moreau. Dr Sherrad was chosen Chairman. About 1,000 persons were present at the Convention. A committee was then appointed to report candidates for a State ticket and Electors at large. A State Central Committee to prepare an address to the Democrats of the State was appointed. A resolution was unanimously adopted endorsing the candidates for President and Vice President nominated at the Louisville Convention and recommending them to the support of the Democrats of Indiana.

Homer Dray has a contract with the head Chinamen in Idaho City to haul the remains of the Chinamen who were massacred by Indians six or seven years ago in Owyhee county numbering about 110 to the railroad for reinterrment to the land of their fathers.

A Chinaman was assassinated in Idaho City a few days ago by a shot through a window. The Celestia supposed to have committed the deed has managed to elude arrest but two others believed to have been implicated in the affair are in jail in default of $2 000 bail each.

Lieutenant George McTaylor with a part of his Company H Twenty third Infantry from Texas has been and was at our last report located at the Grant Indian Agency. The object is to make a fear to run the Reservation to please himself. Lieut McTaylor once commanded Fort Boise Idaho and has done good service in the Indian business.

Capt Walker's newly discovered quartz ledge six miles above Idaho City is exciting a good deal of interest. The ledge is from three to eleven inches wide and soft like putty but pans out hugely. It is worked in an arastra with little expense. The editor of the World and several prominent gentlemen have paid the ledge a visit, and found it better than represented.

EASTERN STATES.

Political Affairs

NEW YORK Sept 20—A T Stewart has declined to allow his name to be used in connection with the candidacy for Mayor.

A Philadelphia letter says Gov Curtin's acceptance of the nomination by Democrats and Liberals as the candidate at large to the Constitutional Convention is in the hands of the Liberal leaders and will soon be published.

A Murderer Arrested.

CHICAGO Sept 20—Geo T Lewis was captured in Nebraska and brought to Jacksonville, Illinois last night en route for Carrollton, Illinois at which place, August 31st, he ambushed and killed Enoch Hardcastle, his neighbor while the latter was plowing. He confessed his guilt, which shows the murder to have been cold blooded and premeditated—the only provocation being a trifling quarrel months before. It is feared the citizens of Green county will lynch the prisoner on his arrival.

Illinois State Fair.

The Illinois State Fair at Ottawa, is a great success as an exhibition and the attendance is very large.

Wall Street News

NEW YORK Sept 20—Affairs on Wall street are generally quiet this morning, and there was little excitement in any quarter.

The Corn Crop in Illinois

CHICAGO, Sept 20—The weather for the past few days has been very fine and favorable to the ripening of the corn crop, most of which is now out of danger from frost. It promises to be the most abundant ever harvested.

Speeches by Greeley and Walker

COLUMBUS, Sept 20—The train with Mr Greeley on board arrived here this morning. It stopped a few minutes and Mr Greeley made a brief speech, reiterating his former arguments in favor of reconciliation. Gov Walker also spoke a few minutes in the same vein.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Financial and Postal.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept 20—At the residence of Mr Shirpser, 640 Clementine street, three young men formally embraced the Jewish faith this morning. A few friends were present and witnessed the ceremonies. The father of the young men although himself a Jew, had allowed his sons to espouse the Christian religion.

The Pacific Mail Co has purchased the business of the North Pacific Transportation Co, so far as the same relates to the southern route.

There are indications of a scarcity of money for wheat purposes. The leading exporters have made large purchases during the past few weeks and now hold immense quantities, all that they can carry. The wheat and flour cargoes sent off since July first have netted $4 000 000 a large portion of which has been reinvested in wheat.

ARIZONA

Fight with Indians

SAN DIEGO Sept 20—A passenger by the Arizona stage brings intelligence of a fight between General Crook and the Indians at the Date Creek Reservation. We learn the following particulars: Two Apache chiefs detected by General Crook in leaving the reservation and going on the war path issued an order to Jacobs, an attache of Colleyer's indorsed by Howard Indian Agent at Date Creek for their arrest but Jacobs declined to give them up whereupon General Crook proceeded in person to Date Creek and ordered a Corporal's guard to arrest the two chiefs. The Apaches, who were all out some four or five hundred strong to draw rations for the day poured upon the guard and killed one soldier. General Crook seized a gun and fired upon them killing one Apache and immediately gave orders for a Company of Cavalry who were on parade to fall into line and fire, which they did killing thirty Indians on the first fire. The Indians broke and fled for the mountains hotly pursued by Gen Crook with ten companies of Cavalry. This news is received by all Arizonians and others interested in the welfare of the Territory with great satisfaction as it shows that Gen Crook has at last taken matters in hand and will not submit to the whims of the Peace Commission and will at least for once teach the thieving Apaches that they cannot always murder with impunity and look to Indian Agents and Reservations for protection.

UTAH

From Salt Lake

SALT LAKE Sept 20—The attention of the mining public is occupied with highly important discoveries of silver ledges twenty five miles north of Toroonoma on the Central Pacific railroad. The ledges are inexhaustible quantities assaying from ninety four to three thousand ounces of silver per ton. The ledges are distinct and well defined. There is a great rush of people to the new district.

Miss Phoebe Cousins a noted female prostitution on the streets of St Louis lectures to morrow night on Woman's Individuality.

Two attempted suicides in the last twenty four hours by women seduced and abandoned.

The remainder of the troops sent south against the Indians returned last night. Mormon papers predict further trouble and charge the responsibility on the people not protecting themselves successfully and to the proclamation of former Federal officials forbidding the assembling of the Mormon militia, except by order of the Governor.

OREGON LEGISLATURE

Seventh Biennial Session.

Senate.

SALEM SESSION

SALEM Sept 20 1872

Senate met at the usual hour with President Fay in the chair.

Roll called and 21 members present.

The morning session was opened with prayer by Rev Mr Campbell, of Polk county.

Journal of yesterday read and approved.

Mr Patterson asked leave of absence for Mr Bristow until Monday in consequence of the death of his father. Leave granted.

Mr Baldwin, from the Committee on Judiciary reported back S B No 3 and asked that it be referred to the Committee of the Whole Senate. Report adopted.

Mr Brown of Baker gave notice of his intention of asking to organize and care for the deaf and dumb of the State.

The bill amending act regulating and establishing ferries after being read a third time, went to the Committee on Roads and Highways.

Mr Burbank offered a joint resolution the 1st of which was to consider the committees from the two houses a joint committee. Carried. Committee ready and the House adjourned.

AFTERNOON SESSION

House convened at the usual hour, Messrs. Burbank and Caples absent.

The Speaker announced that he had signed the bill for the relief of Judge McArthur.

Mr Engle bill regulating civil and criminal practice was read a second time and referred to a joint committee.

Mr Berin, offered a J R appointing two from the House, and two from the Senate to whom her shall so much of the Governor's message as refers to [illegible].

Mr Congle, offered a bill amending the act relative to the [illegible] of taxes exempting certain kinds from taxation.

Mr Riley introduced a bill amending the act relating to East Portland.

Both bills read and ordered printed.

Mr Simpson, moved to [illegible] the vote by which rule 43 was amended. Vote was declared and lost.

Mr Stott, introduced a bill providing for the [illegible] of Judges of the Supreme and Circuit Courts. Read and ordered printed.

Mr Corvelin offered a bill to aid in the construction of the Trask river road.

Mr Corvin introduced a bill to abolish the Grand Jury system. Read and ordered printed.

A message was received informing the House that the Senate had concurred in J R No 7 but amended the number of the committee on the part of the Senate thereby giving the Senate a majority of said committee.

A long discussion followed. The House opined that it had a right to a majority on all joint committees, and refused to concur in the action of the Senate.

Mr Patton moved that the resolution relative to so much of the Governor's message as refers to [illegible] force to a committee, instructing the committee to examine and determine the amount of work done by the same and report if further legislation is necessary. Carried. House adjourned.

FROM THE CAPITAL

[FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.]

SALEM, Oregon, Sept 20, 1872.

Yesterday the Republican State Central Committee met pursuant to the call of the Chairman, C W Parrish, Esq. They resolved on a vigorous campaign for Grant, and are said to have effected a most thorough organization for that purpose. Gazley stumps Southern Oregon, Hare the Willamette valley, and Meacham the Eastern section. A vote of thanks was tendered Messrs Patton, McCully and Cooke for the use of their [illegible] and the committee adjourned to meet at the call of the Chair. An effort was made to postpone all action of the committee until the Senatorial question should be settled, but although two-thirds of that body has been read out of the party by the Stalwarts they do not believe in acting as if they are still as earnest in behalf of the party as if they had not been read out, more than determined to roll up a big majority for Grant.

THE "CONFERENCE."

At the same hour that the Central Committee met, a number of members of the Legislature held a meeting in the Opera House. The recent investigations into the history of caucuses and their attendant frauds, corruption and disorganization, has given the word such a bad odor that they have changed the name, and the "President of the caucus" now calls a "Conference." I mean that the proposition was made that this "Conference" nominate a candidate and try to whip in enough to elect him, but certain members who do just what they think their consciences and their constituents will approve, blocked the game by threatening to leave the room if such thing were attempted. The Conference" adjourned to meet at the call of the President.

NEW ELECTION LAW.

In the Senate Strahan, of Benton, introduced a bill to provide for voting at all popular elections by ballot regard of race color. It provides that ballots shall be deposited in a locked box, without being inspected, that if on counting them there are two ballots folded together, they shall not be counted, lays down rules for determining disputed as to residence of persons offering to vote, provides that candidates or their friends, not exceeding three on a side, may be present at the counting, and in several respects an improvement on the present system. As the election in November must be by ballot, according to act of Congress, it is to be hoped that this bill will become a law in time to regulate that election.

"SENATOR" ROSNER.

The claims of this gentleman to a seat in the Senate are regarded as settled by the action of that body. Mr Mosher claims that Douglas county is entitled to a Senator, and that he is entitled to the seat without displacing the joint Senator of Douglas, Coos, and Curry. The Senate, however, by a vote of 11 to 10—Mr Fay not voting—laid upon the table a resolution to that effect, and this will probably be the last of it.

THE STAFF PRINTER.

The President of the Senate gave notice of a bill to authorize the election, November 5th, of a State Printer, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. Patterson. This is understood to be a cut at Mr Semple, who has been appointed by the Governor, and as the position is the 'fattest' one in the State, the fight is likely to be pretty lively.

A WAR-TIME EDITOR.

M V Brown, of the Albany Democrat, has been appointed Brigadier General of Militia, to fill the vacancy caused by General Bell's resignation. General Brown is here, and will, no doubt appear in full uniform at the party to be given to night at Mr Jones'. After which he will probably go home and republish Greeley's On to Richmond editorials. Well, Mart is a prime fellow and I only wish his pay was in better coin than military rank.

The Legislature and many other visitors are invited to Mr and Mrs Jones to-night and there is to be a crowd. They don't want 'Chief among em takin notes' but if they talk any politics I'll find it out. And faith I'll prent it.

The Irish citizens of Wisconsin are said to be up in arms to a man against the Greeley farce.

Dr. Aborn's Return.

DR ABORN WILL RETURN TO HIS APARTments, corner of Third and Morrison streets about SEPTEMBER 25th, and remain until the 5th of October.

DR. ABORN will be at the Chemeketa Hotel Salem during the week of the State Fair. s16d6tip

Indian Missions and Missionaries

The following letter published in the Catholic Sentinel gives a history of one of the most known in Oregon Archbishop Blanchet and he will be read with much interest by our readers The writer says

Since in the course of your editorial labors you have frequent occasion to speak of the Northwest Catholic Missions and their founders a little of Father Crosjean one of the most zealous and saintly priest in the country

Still we must bear in mind that the other early name heading this communication was that first priest who brought the things of God to the Indians of the Northwest and the first to unfurled the standard of the cross and call children of the forest whose every moment in the shadow of barbarism It is owing to the great piety and zeal of Archbishop Blanchet that more than one hundred thousand Indians have been drawn from darkness to the worship of the true God and are now in heaven and on earth passing the Most High with thankful canticles Their Father Christ and other zealous missionaries have been in core sail, the co laborers of Archbishop Blanchet their revered leader in the work of evangelizing the untutored children of the Northwest

Archbishop Blanchet was born in Canada in 1792 of a wealthy and influential family That family has produced archbishops bishops and priests and many men noted for high talents and rare worth in the secular walks of life He was educated in Quebec and was distinguished as a student for profundity and brilliancy After being exalted to the priesthood he created a profound sensation fanned the smouldering fires of faith in Catholics and converted many protestants While still a young priest a pestilence visited a certain township in the diocese of Quebec He was ordered thither to administer the comforts of religion to the afflicted He did so taking neither race nor religion into consideration in his great work of comforting the pestilence-stricken people Such was the influence of his piety and character in this great crisis when others fled panic-stricken, leaving friends and acquaintances to perish miserably that he made numerous converts and when the plague was stayed the citizens the Protestant citizens presented the good priest with public testimonials for this godly devotion and heroism

Archbishop Blanchet arrived in the Far West on November 24, 1838, accompanied by another holy man Monsieur Demers who in 1847 was consecrated Bishop of Vancouver Island

Archbishop Blanchet on his arrival at Vancouver—now Washington Territory—built a church and dedicated it under the especial patronage of St James He located missions among the trappers and Indians in Oregon, Washington Territory and Vancouver Island In fact his jurisdiction extended from Prince Charlotte Island in the north to the boundaries of California in the south from Puget Sound in the west to the Rocky mountains in the east

Archbishop Blanchet was also accompanied by another celebrated companion Very Rev Father De Smet The two great priests divided the immense territory under their charge Archbishop Blanchet took that portion lying west of the Rocky mountains and Father De Smet that portion lying east of the same Like St Francis Xavier in Japan the two great missionaries, by their zeal and ceaseless devotion, built churches from one end of the continent —as their diocese might be called—to the other and christened numberless bands of Indians, who still proclaim the glory of God and bless and revere their teachers for benefactors

Archbishop Blanchet in 1884 received from Rome a Bull making him Bishop of Drazo in partibus infidelium In the autumn of 1844 he started for Canada and was consecrated Bishop He immediately proceeded to Europe to bring back workers for the Indians He visited Rome and was received by Pope Gregory XVI then filling the chair of Peter He laid before the Pontiff the im[pro]vement of his mission, and was at once appointed Archbishop of Oregon, with two or three suffragan Bishops After having secured that much he knelt at the feet of the Holy Father, receiving his apostolic blessing, he then went to Paris and [ob]tained [ad]ditional resources and on the 3d of February, 1847, he and eighteen others in the harbor of Brest, France, with fourteen priests, three lay Brothers of the company of Jesus and six Sisters of Notre Dame The names of these young Priests, who volunteered to sacrifice home, country friends, civilization and the pleasures of civilized life, to carry the faith to the red man, and lay their bones in the wilderness for the glory of God deserve all honor and praise Their names were Fathers Tonnet Menoite, Gazzoli Gatz Menitre Lebas Delorand Prefot Delorme, Jayet Veyret and McCormack The other names have escaped my memory Doubtless some of the missionaries themselves can supply you with them The good ship company arrived at Portland Oregon on the 10th of August, 1847 There was only one building in Portland at that time Archbishop Blanchet proceeded to Oregon City—then a village of twenty houses—and from there to St Paul's An immense demonstration was arranged by the trappers and Indians and the young priests were astonished to find the faith of the red men as enthusiastic as was that in their own countries

During the Bishop's absence in Europe several churches had been built—one in St Paul's one in St Louis and one in Oregon City The latter was the Cathedral and the see of the Archbishop at the time

Now commenced the work of evangelization in earnest The secular priests were directed to take the western missions and the Jesuit Fathers the northern The pioneer Archbishop during the whole of his missionary life thirty four years has practiced piety austerity and self abnegation making himself the servant and the friend of all the better to spread the faith throughout that rugged country and preach the Crucified to all men Archbishop Blanchet is now almost at the end of his earthly and will soon begin his eternal life Although enfeebled in body—being now eighty two years old—his soul is still as young and as strong as when first he turned his back upon civilization and his face toward the wilderness He sees with unbounded joy his diocese in a most flourishing condition surrounded by good priests grand churches fine congregations of whites and noble Indian missions He sees schools and colleges and many convents, where the rising generation will come for intelligence and faith

The works of this great man are truly wonderful but as this letter is already too long I will reserve a short review of them for another article

He can exclaim with St Paul Bonum certamen certavi cursum consummavi fidem servavi in reliquo reposita est mihi corona justitiæ quam reddet mihi Dominus in illa die justus judex SOCRATES

CAPITAL WANTED IN THE MINES —The Nevada Transcript complains of the want of capital to develop the mining interests in that locality It says The celebrated Arizona mine in the new world an even million was for years the property of a few men unable properly to develop it and even begging at one dollar per foot Then are several mines partially developed at the present time in Buena Vista Star and Lincoln districts which should have come to the front before than the Arizona did with an expenditure of labor We speak knowingly of this subject and vouch for the correctness of the statement To that there are hundreds of tons of ore that assay from [fi]fty dollars on [up]ward in the dumps of mines that could during the present winter be worked by owners if [re]duction works were erected and the ore reduced at a cost which would not pay [t]he transportation to San Francisco But [t]here is not capital enough [in] the whole [Co]mstock to build [a] single mill which would be [a] profitable investment to the owners who own them are compelled to sacrifice [t]heir interests to the first comer who comes along with capital to invest in a mill Capital is welcome in the mining districts of Nevada and will always receive remunerative returns

A custom mill for our ores is a necessity We could with facility for reducing ores at reasonable rates and within reasonable distance from the mines we could rely on our own ores to keep a mill in operation

Before the people that a resolution in favor of common schools was defeated in the convention of Missouri

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

FRIDAY EVENING Sept 4 1874

Gold in New York to-day 11

Portland Legal Tender rates 85 buying 86 selling

Wheat Liverpool 10s 4d to 10s 8d

There was a run in Wall st New York Thursday and the announcement of the failure of a prominent banking house created a panic in financial circles here but has exercised no influence in the market which appears to be not better or worse A bill has been introduced at the Legislature not necessary to repeal the present usury law of the State or rather to amend the provision now in force so as to contract for a rate of interest which will encourage capital to come into the State and invest in manufactures and other enterprises which will develop the resources of the country We could give several instances where parties who have money to loan refuse to be restricted to a certain price for the use of it on the ground that they do not like to lend who needs a horse But one thing remains as a hard fact and that is no statute provision has ever yet been enacted that was a bar to occasional times of closeness in financial matters Show us a community which has not experienced a monetary pressure in the course of its history and we might be led to believe that a law or the absence of a law on the subject of interest on money positively controls such matters

A careful observation of the amount of treasure shipped from the Pacific coast to New York and elsewhere since January 1st 1873—not less than $30 000 000 in round numbers—and the fact that $6 000 000 are said to be now lying idle, on special deposit in one of the San Francisco Banks being money made in stock speculations by different parties to our mind accounts for the tightness of the money market here and elsewhere throughout the Pacific States and Territories. This fact that New York now feels the demand by the Western States to move the Grain crop we would deem rather an indication in our favor The Commercial Reporter of this date says

New York advices note a growing stringency in that market, in consequence of the increased call from the Western and Southern States to meet the crops which are reported quite heavy This increased call comes in before the moving of the crops sets in fairly which when at its highest will drain New York until buoyant market East will become closer and more stringent than known this year The San Francisco money market reports less or with the rate of discount [illegible]

The New York Shipping List of the [illegible] says

Grain rates have again advanced the offerings to be large and the tone [illegible] light with an active business for Great Britain [illegible] other departments the [illegible] The Portland trade continues to be restricted by the high price of [illegible] and the few charges made have been at rates [illegible] rates Vessels of all classes are scarce and business in consequence restricted in consequence The Indian Ocean [illegible] eastern harbors and Pacific [illegible]

The Last of the Caucus

The last effort of the caucus breakers of 1860 to force a caucus on the Republican members of the Legislature was made on Thursday night The whipping in process proved at last a signal failure and was given up in despair Whether it will be renewed is not certainly known but those who are in the most favorable position to judge of the matter excepting always the originating plotters think we have had the last of that precious mode of dealing with men who regard their obligations to their constituents as above the claims of any man or corporation And the same thing is apparent in the tone of yesterday's Statesman From the most arrogant of overseers that paper has suddenly turned in to the mildest little scold in the whole family of newspapers A few days ago it cracked its master s whip over the shoulders of Republicans as if it supposed it would be as easy going for the ring in the Legislature as it was in the Portland primaries now it can woo you as gently as any sucking dove

The members who stood firm and refused to be lashed into doing what they did not believe to be for the best interests of the Republican party, or in accordance with the wishes of their constituents have rendered a more important service to the party in this act, than could be done by any amount of political legislation They have taken a course that will end in rescuing the party from the tyranny of the most oppressive and unjust system of partizan tactics that ever was sought to be enforced in any country where people claimed to be free We do not refer to the caucus system especially, (for those who wished to go into caucus had that right,) but to the practice introduced by this corporation ring, of declaring that anything they wish to have done to accomplish their purposes, is an essential part of Republican usages and then raising the cry of disorganization against every member of the party who dares to express a different opinion. This course of conduct on their part, well nigh broke down the party in Portland in 1866 and all over the State it has driven from our ranks many persons of influence since that time We offer no justification of those who suffered themselves to be driven out by this means, but it can not be denied that they had great and unnecessary cause of complaint

It is just as certain that a Republican will be elected as if the choice had been made in caucus Let the Republican members now go forward in the discharge of the high trust imposed upon them, carrying out the will of their constituencies, and the true interests of the party will be promoted, and the gratitude of the whole State will be their reward

Dirt Eating

Immediately after the reunion of the veteran soldiers of the Republic at Pittsburg Horace Greeley put in an appearance at that place Notice of his approach had preceded him, and, as it was evident that he was taking all this trouble upon himself in order to get an opportunity to shake hands across a bloody chasm, a great many people went out to the depot to meet him, bearing torches and other tokens of a peaceful and hand-shaking disposition They shook hands cordially with Horace, but Horace was disappointed Shaking hands don t amount to much unless it is done across a bloody chasm and there was no bloody chasm in sight The people of Pittsburg ought to have had a chasm ready for the occasion Horace felt slighted as well as disappointed and he was not long making up his mind to tell them so He did not say much till he reached the hotel, but then he climbed up to the top of a balcony, and spoke right out Our dispatches published this morning show what he said in his speech and what he meant by a part of it The soldiers had evidently been talking about war, and he did not like war That was not the way for nations to settle their disputes If two nations got into such a difficulty that statesmen and diplomats could not devise a way to get them out, they ought to shake hands across the bloody chasm That might be a dernier resort, but when everything else failed that was sure to succeed These soldiers' meetings were not good things, because they were devoted to talking about war. They stirred up bad blood Fresh, sweet, healthy blood was the only kind that was fit for use, even in a chasm.

To such shallow demagoguing does Greeley resort to secure the votes of those Democrats who have too much respect for the time honored principles of the party, and its oft declared purposes, to surrender those principles and purposes at the command of a coalition between Democratic politicians and Republican mal-contents He who cried loudest for war and was the most inexorable in his demand for the blood of the Southern people, now exhibits himself in the attitude of supplication and whines sickly sentiment in the ears of the South, to secure their votes. The Presidency of these United States is too small a price for such self abasement, even if thereby it might certainly be won The Republican party has shown by its works that it desires, and will labor to restore, the most cordial and fraternal relations with the people lately in rebellion The efforts of the Administration in that direction are their own best vindication Peace sheds its sweet influences over the land that was made desolate, but it is a peace that recognizes and honors the brave men to whose patriotic services on the battle field we owe its preservation of our country

All About Speech Making

As a means of moulding and controlling public sentiment the newspaper and magazine have superseded the rostrum People now acquire their knowledge of current events, and the suggestions from which their opinions are made up not through their ears but through their eyes No one expects to make proselytes to any cause or convince mankind of the correctness of any new views by speech making Everybody reads Public addresses are considered serviceable sometimes as a means of getting up enthusiasm among those whose opinions are already made up and hence they are resorted to in political campaigns

It is coming to be in America a fashion, even in older communities One of our peculiar institutions —for such we may consider speechifying —is passing away Orators of the most nauseous stripe still rise in order to rant But they do it as it is not expected that anybody will listen to what the orator says on such occasions except those who happen to sit upon its skirts where inattention would be deemed offensive No well informed person at this day of the accomplishment of anything in the State or National Legislatures, or in any department of Government, through his ability as a speaker The greatness of diction and the fire of eloquence have lost much of their power and henceforth are to be pursued mainly as matters of esthetic culture The finest speakers are seldom found to be the most efficient workers Constant personal attention to the matter in hand readiness in private conversation diligence looking after details promptness and persistency —these are the elements of success in all public and private affairs These qualities are rarely combined with great natural power and it often happens that the greatest orators are totally destitute of them I merely present these views in order that the people may judge for themselves whether the estimate I have placed upon them is correct or not

Corbett and Mitchell Contrasted

PORTLAND Sept 20 1872

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ORE NIAN

Permit me to say a word upon the Senatorial question

The two gentlemen H W Corbett and J H Mitchell being the prominent aspirants for Senatorial honors, are well known in this State Their political history is familiar to us all and it would be a very difficult task to place either of them in a false position to tell anything new in regard to either of them I merely propose to contrast between them place them side by side and let the people judge I do not for a moment that the political views of these gentlemen are identical and their fair standing in the Republican party have much to do with it but there are other considerations of considerable importance which ought not to be overlooked in this contest I propose to review them briefly

Mr Corbett has represented this State for the past five years in the United States Senate to the satisfaction of all parties devoting his entire time and business talents to the discharge of his various duties as a Senator of the United States but especially as the representative of the State of Oregon, looking after the material interests of our State Those duties he has performed quietly without parade or ostentation

I understand from his speech in Salem that if re elected he proposes to pursue the same line of policy which has given so much satisfaction to his entire constituency that he goes to the United States Senate to represent, not the interest of one man or one interest to the prejudice of another but to represent Oregon, and that whatever tends to promote her welfare will receive his support This position if I understand it does not bring Mr Corbett into antagonism with the railroad interest or any other private or corporate interests in the State His course while in the Senate was not hostile to the railroad enterprises of Oregon on the contrary they have received his best energies for their advancement as the promoter of the other interests of this State And pending him by the light of the past and the very positive position taken by him in his Salem speech the railroad interests of Oregon will continue to receive his cordial support This being the position of Mr Corbett, it is certainly manly, it is broad and liberal

Now, what is the position of Mr Mitchell As he has not seen proper to define his position, for reasons best known to himself, and those with whose interests he is identified we are compelled to rely on circumstances to determine his position and the course that he will pursue should he be elected to the United States Senate It is well known that Mr M is the political and financial attorney of Ben Holladay the railroad head of Oregon The whole railroad force, from king to brakesman are clamoring for his election After Mr Corbett had defined his position Mr Mitchell was called out, and his many warm admirers expected no dodging or equivocations but a clear and candid exposition of what we might expect of him should he be elected to the U S Senate but to their disappointment he was as silent as the grave upon this important subject Now, is it not fair to presume from these circumstances that should Mr Mitchell be elected, he would go there to represent one railroad interest especially and that all other interests would be made to subserve this one? That all appropriations of money and appointments in the State would be made so as to promote that particular interest at the expense of all other interests? Mr Mitchell and his supporters cannot complain at this interpretation of his conduct. It is the only legitimate position that we can assume for him from a series of circumstances of his own creating An effort is made to create a doubt that this is his true position, by the half suppressed and covert insinuation that Mr Holladay is opposed to Mr Mitchell, and is desirous of having Senatorial honors thrust upon himself, but this is all bosh It is in perfect keeping with his silence on the rostrum at Salem This is all done to give the impression that Mr Mitchell is not in the railroad interest Judge ye between them There are many other marked contrasts between these aspirants for the Senatorship that might, with propriety, be referred to

Mr Mitchell has been instrumental in producing more discord in the Republican party than any man in the State He has been the chief manipulator in the primaries corrupting the morals of the people and preventing a fair expression of the party He has called around him a ring of unscrupulous men whose only policy is self aggrandizement and gain, who have set themselves up as self constituted leaders of the Republican party who measure the politics of men (by far their superiors), by their adherence to their clan and have the effrontery to read such men as they cannot use out of the party

The course of Mr Corbett has been exactly the reverse Devotedly attached to the principles of the Republican party and its success, he has always thrown his influence for its success with moral and material aid but he has never condescended to manipulate primaries, to thwart the wishes of the majority of his party, or to prevent a fair expression of their choice of men

There is another important fact for the consideration of those having votes to cast for United States Senator and that is, Mr Corbett is the choice of two thirds of the Republican party in this State for U S Senator Let any candid man circulate among the substantial tax paying Republicans and put the question fairly to them as to their choice for U S Senator, and his conclusions cannot fail to be that my estimate is rather under the true facts than otherwise—especially in the agricultural, manufacturing and mining districts, where men are not so closely allied in their personal interests, with the monopoly of which Mr Mitchell is the representative Their constituency are ever watchful Knowing the true interests of the State themselves they expect their representatives in the Legislature to respect them, and they will be justified in their estimation in proportion as their expectations are realized A man that represents the true interests of his constituents is never suspected of acting under corrupt influence but he who may present the true and best interests of his State, and the wishes of his constituency however consistent he may be has never been known to live long enough to rid himself of the suspicion of having acted under improper motives It sticks to him like Nessus shirt

ONE OF THE PEOPLE

STREET CUT —Probably there never was a politician so completely assimilated as Jimmy Doolittle United States Senator from Wisconsin He was in the career of stumping it for Greely in New England when the exposure by the New York Times of his corruption fell upon him and smashed him as flat as a pancake He quit the stump and left New England at once and a meaner feeling meaner looking more utterly used up individual does not exist to day than the late pompous reformer He is entirely broken down He cannot now hope to receive any office however small even if Greeley should be elected while the people of Wisconsin would not elect such a disgraced scalawag so much as the office of pound master He cannot even stump it any longer in consequence of his disgrace as respectable and honest men of his own party, will shoot him off the speaker's stand Yet this fellow was President of the Baltimore Convention and is a United States Senator as it has been the loldest form Boanerges of the pack

Democratic Register

The Democratic Register published a Times Prince speaking of the absurd charges of nepotism against Senator Grant says The republicans take the real ground made in his favor was his not managing to have been a candidate

The new papers throughout the country are making much fun over the Tribune's conundrum Is there a limit to living They don't think the Tribune as a basis that there is

ATTENTION —Again the indefatigable has made a new move The First street stand has been closed and Lamptown customers will find him at the old stand, where many improvements have been made If you want some Fish or anything that is good go to Quinn's Union Fish Market Washington street between First and Second.

SATURDAY MORNING SEPT [illegible]

CITY.

WAS [illegible]-NIGHT —A gentleman arrived [illegible] another evening from The Dalles the following particulars concerning an [illegible] which [illegible] ment and well known of the [illegible] noticed below the Cascades Thursday afternoon These dealers in [illegible] cascades concluded they would take a [illegible] to Cascades—embark on the morning [illegible] and return to City in the evening [illegible] reached [illegible] in due time and after [illegible] ing several hours up rambling around [illegible] to have a seat on the Columbia, and return [illegible] to take the steamer before she left the [illegible] Portland The current at that place proved [illegible] strong and the wind unfavorable The men [illegible] who were little versed in measuring [illegible] we gather soon saw more than in the manager [illegible] sail boat The effort proved a failure [illegible] navigate [illegible] found themselves over a [illegible] few the steamer and unable to stem the [illegible] The boat continued to drift away At [illegible] spairing return to the Cascades in the [illegible] steamer they thought they would run into [illegible] and were soon [illegible] to pass down [illegible] could be managed and the two men [illegible] and [illegible] waded ashore Soon the Gussie [illegible] in view coming up with a good head of [illegible] Our heroes pushed off their craft, and [illegible] the centre of the river at the same time [illegible] signals The steamer was backed, and the [illegible] were soon within hailing distance of each other [illegible] to experienced management, on the part [illegible] adventure our heroes, their frail boat was [illegible] into the path of the steamer wheel, and [illegible] was struck by the "float boards" and [illegible] The two gentlemen in broadcloth were thus [illegible] ingloriously spilt into the water and were [illegible] to their own [illegible] can be described [illegible] presence amount of yelling for assistance and [illegible] desperate tenacity with which they clung [illegible] capsized vessel, can better be imagined than [illegible] service [illegible] was lowered in an instant [illegible] our merchant navigators were "snaked" [illegible] what so nearly proved to be their watery [illegible] The boat was [illegible] and on examination [illegible] to be [illegible] gently damaged One of the gentlemen who was rescued from peril, although he [illegible] in his change somewhere between [illegible] eight feet was heard to declare on his [illegible] he couldn't touch bottom," notwithstanding [illegible] had always harbored the idea that he was [illegible] enough to wade almost any stream in America except the Mississippi Laying aside the [illegible] rous and romantic portion of the adventure [illegible] accident might have resulted in far more [illegible] consequences In fact the escape from [illegible] crushed actually to death by the wheel, [illegible] the perils of drowning, was most providential [illegible] The merchants returned to the city wiser men [illegible] with the firm resolution to economize [illegible] their recreation to dry land, and tempt no more [illegible] in the future the perils of Columbia river navigation [illegible] Most wise and prudent determination.

WARE SAY PER.—From our regular Oregon City correspondent, we learn that a few days since a man named Davus, stopped late in the day at the ranch of Mr John Allen, who lives on the Tualatin river, enquired the way to Oregon City, saying he was going to try and get work at the Canal and Locks. Mr. Allen gave the necessary information Davus then complained of being weary and tired and said he would like to eat dinner and rest Mr Allen told him as it was some distance to Oregon City perhaps it would be best for him to remain there all night and prosecute his journey to the morning, to which he was kindly welcome to the hospitality of his home, and that night the viper taken into the house and warmed by the farmer's fire In the morning Davus had decamped and, on Mr Allen examining his premises, he discovered he had been robbed by Davus of two pairs of pants, in the pocket of one of which was a note due Allen of $100, a fine cassimere coat other clothing and some tools. Allen found his boat was also gone On his way up the river to a neighbor's, he discovered his boat tied to the brush on the river bank, and his neighbor said he saw the man who had it there, and also which way he went The description was that of Allen's viper, and he tracked him as far as Mr Wm Bolton's near Canby Here the viper crawled out of sight and left no trace behind Mr Allen proceeded as he was in the vicinity, he would go to the Spiritual Camp Meeting, then being held at Woodburn On arriving there, being himself weary and tired by this time, he went into a saloon to refresh himself, and, lo and behold he beheld the viper's hole [illegible] out Davus, attired in Allen's own clothes. Having fortunately in his pocket many documents about him he "smelt a rat" and arrest him at once. Covering him with a revolver he called on the proprietor of the saloon in the name of the law to assist him, (which he did) several roughs in the saloon at the time) "Why," said the proprietor, "that's my own cousin and an the constable here." "Cousin or not," said Allen, "if he moves from this he's a dead man and if you are constable I call on you to execute that warrant," at the same time handing it to him The constable examined it, pronounced it all right and said "if it was his cousin he would do his duty" Before Allen left with his prisoner the constable discovered that Davus had robbed him also The viper was taken to Oregon City and examined before Justice Burns, and in default of bonds is now in prison awaiting his trial, and he is to be hoped he will not find an asylum in that very insecure building, (the Oregon City jail) to crawl out of.

PUBLIC CHARITIES —In a rapidly expanding city like Portland, there must always be more or less destitution and suffering. A variety of causes combine to cast upon the cold charities of the world, children who are orphans and helpless, persons stricken down in the midst of their usefulness by disease and the very old, whom infirmities compel them to become a public charge. The State has not been unmindful of these unfortunates. It has wisely provided for the sick and the crous. Still, the State is severally restricted in its bounty, and much, therefore, remains to be done by the different communities which find themselves under the necessity of assuming responsibilities of this kind, which philanthropy forbids they should overlook or neglect The burden of this duty is greatly increased by reason of these objects of sympathy and want coming to us not from the ocean, the overland railroad, and many of the interior towns of the State. She has no one to provide for them, and to carry out her broad principles of charity, every citizen who has the ability is expected to contribute in some sort to the general fund for relief Our Orphan Home must not be forgotten, nor our Ladies Relief Society, nor the Benevolent Association whose benefits are distributed without regard to age sex or condition The year has been one of unusual abundance. There is but little stringency to the times. It is for these reasons that we have noticed—and also for the better reason that people are at all times whole hearted—being much inclined to be indifferent to the appeals that come from time to time—from various quarters—and on exhibition of their prover

ALL AT REST —The quiet and law abiding dealers on Front street, between Washington and Alder were thrown into a state of excitement yesterday afternoon by a man who came running and [illegible] said an ancient king [illegible] That King was no old fogy without much [illegible] to recommend him and quarrel now a days [illegible] several bitter contentions have arisen in Portland at different times, and under [illegible] dog The quarrel in question all arose about [illegible] the trouble did not originate from conflicting [illegible] as to the ownership of the animal A [illegible] have mentioned had a handsome dog pleasure [illegible] to look upon and dear to him as the apple of [illegible] The [illegible] dog peiter [illegible] "Bassy" and dog and was captured Charles looked [illegible] and the more he gazed, the [illegible] two dogs seemed the animal exactly, but [illegible] was [illegible] price of the real; His line of [illegible] he walked up and captured the [illegible] Both [illegible] spoke swore or only a broker [illegible] be persuaded he [illegible] The potter couldn't [illegible] and the two dogs [illegible] funny [illegible]

[illegible] An exchange [illegible] Portland the [illegible] a man who [illegible] doing it before A [illegible] we don see the [illegible] needed any assistance [illegible] drowning I [illegible] saw a man drowning we should refer to ours [illegible] we were very much [illegible] on him We would assist come men

CITY.

WATERY GRAVE—NEARLY —A gentleman who arrived in this city yesterday evening from The Dalles relates the following particulars concerning an adventure which two prominent and well known merchants of this city encountered below the Cascades last Thursday afternoon These dealers in cotton and salmon, concluded they would take a run to the Cascades, embarking on the morning boat, and and return to this city in the evening The steamer reached the Cascades in due time and after spending several hours in rambling around, concluded to leave a sail on the Columbia, and return in time to take the steamer before she left the wharf for Portland. The current at that place proved very strong and the wind unfavorable The merchants too, were better versed in measuring silk and selling groceries than in the management of a sail boat The effort proved a failure and the navigators soon found themselves over a mile below the steamer, and unable to stem the current The boat continued to drift away At last despairing to return to the Cascades in time for the ——, they thought they would run into shore, and wait for the boat to pass down, when she could be signaled and the two men taken on board This was done Soon the Oregonian came in view bearing down with a good head of steam Our heroes pushed off their craft, and made for the center of the river, at the same time giving signals The steamer was backed, and the crafts soon came in hailing distance of each other Owing to experienced (?) management, on the part of our sailing heroes, their frail boat was drawn into the suck of the steamer wheel, and in a trice was struck by the "float boards" and capsized. The two gentlemen in broadcloth were unceremoniously "spilt" into the water and wet their outer quicker than can be described The amount of yelling for assistance and the tenacity with which they clung to the wreck, can better be imagined than described A boat was lowered in an instant, and our "chant navigators" were "snaked from what so nearly proved to be their watery graves The boat was righted, and on examination proved to be slightly damaged One of the gentlemen who was rescued from peril, although he stands in his stockings somewhere between seven and eight feet, was heard to declare on his honor, that he "couldn't touch bottom," notwithstanding he had always harbored the idea that he was tall enough to wade almost any stream in America or the Mississippi. Laying aside the ludicrous and romantic portion of the adventure, the affair might have resulted in far more serious consequences In fact the escape from being instantly to death by the wheel, besides the perils of drowning, was most providential The merchants returned to the city wetter and wiser men, with the firm resolution to confine their operations to dry land, and tempt no more in the future the perils of Columbia river navigation. Most wise and prudent determination

WARNING A VIPER —From our regular Oregon City correspondent; we learn that a few days ago a man named Davne, stopped late in the day at the ranch of Mr John Allen, who lives on the Tualatin river, enquired the way to Oregon City, saying he was going to try and get work at the Canal and Locks. Mr. Allen gave the necessary information Davne then complained of being dry and tired and said he would like to sit down and rest. Mr. Allen told him as it was some distance to Oregon City, perhaps it would be best for him to remain there all night and prosecute his journey in the morning, if so, he was kindly welcome to the hospitality of his house, and thus was the viper taken into the house and warmed at the farmer's fire 'In the morning Davne had disappeared, and, on Mr Allen examining his premises, he discovered he had been robbed by Davne, of two pairs of pants, in the pocket of one of which was a note due Allen of $160, a fine cassimere coat, other clothing and some tools Allen found, his boat was also gone On his way up the river to a neighbor's, he discovered his boat tied in the brush on the river bank, and his neighbor said he saw the man who had it there, and also which way he went The description was that of Allen's viper, and he tracked him as far as Mr Wm Barlow's near Canby. Here the viper crawled out of sight and left no trace behind Mr Allen continued on, as he was in the vicinity, he would go to Canemeeting, there being held at On arriving there, being himself tired by this time, he went into a saloon by himself, and, lo and behold he had found his bete. There sat Davne, attired in his own clothes. Having fortunately the money on his person about him he determined to act at once. Consulting him with a revolver on the proprietor of the saloon in the name of the law to assist him, (there being a constable in the —— near at the time) "Why" said the visitor, "that's my own cousin and I know it sure." "Cousin or nut," said the constable from there he's a dead man, and I call on you in the name of the law at the same time handing it to the constable examined it, pronounced it correct, and said "if it was his cousin he would be d—d" Before Allen left with his prisoner he discovered that Davne had escaped. The viper was taken to Oregon City, arraigned before Justices Burns and ——, and is now in prison awaiting his trial It is to be hoped he will not find any very insecure building, (the Oregon City mill race) out of.

A DOG —The quiet and law abiding citizens of real estate dealers on Front street, Oregon and Alder were thrown into a state of excitement yesterday afternoon by a difficulty," said an ancient king, "when a woman's at the bottom of the thing was an old fogy, without much to do, can fall out and quarrel now a days, and be concerned in it either contentions have arisen in different times, and under different circumstances, about such a small object as the quarrel in question all arose about a dog. However, we may remark right here, that it did not originate from conflicting claims of ownership of the animal. A certain broker doing business in the locality named, had a handsome dog, pleasing in appearance, and dear to him as the apple of his eye. The dog peiter, yclept "Gassy Jim" was the name by which the canine was captured Charles looked, admired again, and the more he gazed, the more he was not the animal exactly, but the price of his scalp His line of thought walked up and captured the dog. The broker swore as only a broker can when irritated, he persuaded, he would be now will be. The broker said: The peiter couldn't be caught at, and if and the two dollars, he proposes to sic'oke him funny about somebody's ears ——by dog is sacrificed.

TEMPERATURE —An exchange says a young man drowned at Portland the other day and a man who saw him doing it refused to A for four of getting his clothes The coroner to know more about this case of drowning than any of the Portland reporters do Besides, we don't see that this man needed any assistance in drowning If we saw a man drowning we should refuse to assist unless we were very much down on him We would assist some man

Ball on tightropes, acrobatic feats and other exercises, are in order at the Canyon Gardens to morrow Further particulars will be found in amusement column

JUMPED OFF —Wednesday evening as a young lady was walking on the trestle work in East Portland she observed a locomotive but a short distance ahead, backing down towards the depot From where the young lady was to the embankment was some sixty yards She could not go back, and was too badly scared to attempt to reach the embankment The engineer whistled several times, but seeing how frightened the lady was, he brought the locomotive to a stand still and shouted to her to come on So was too badly scared to remain longer on the track in the face of the iron monster and running back a little way she jumped off the trestle work to the ground a distance of over twelve feet, notwithstanding the engineer continued to assure her that there was no danger

BACKED OFF —A team engaged in carting earth from the excavation along I street to a point on J street, beyond Fourth, in East Portland, backed off the steep embankment yesterday morning The distance was nearly 80 feet. The descent, however, was not perpendicular, and the loose soft dirt broke in a great measure the force of the fall Horses and wagon rolled over and over to the bed of the slough below Singular as it may appear the wagon was not damaged nor the team injured beyond the loss of a little hair and hide A chain was attached to the horses and wagon, and each drawn up in detail The whole affair caused but a few hours detention

FIRE HYDRANTS —Three fire hydrants along the Sixth street line, have already been completed by the instruction of the Committee on Fire and Water and the Chief Engineer, and will soon be ready for use The other hydrants required to complete the specified number will soon be placed at the designated corners These hydrants will have to be placed in during the night, as to secure the necessary connection will require the water to be shut off for a time Persons who will be affected by the temporary shutting off of the water will be timely notified

PASSENGERS —The steamer Ajax which sailed for San Francisco last evening from this port, carried away the following passengers R B Graham, Miss F L Abbott, Dr J C Fallen, W P Sanford & wife Mrs Noyes and son, E St John, W T P Polk, J Waltermeid, W S Stiss, P J Peabody, Mr Hapgood Mr Hume, A Sterritt, P H Smith W W Barlow, E W Barlow, C Fredrick, Wm Lonner, H Tonlson, J L Benobly, J Whittaker, wife and 4 children, B Wolverton, W P & Co's messenger and 56 in the steerage

BIG TRAIN —The largest freight train, probably, that has ever come down the track passed East Portland on Thursday evening When the last car was on the J street bridge the locomotive was more than half way to the depot The cars were loaded with wheat and flour

AT HALF MAST —The Swedish Consulate flags, over the store of Hewitt & Co, and the barks Electra and Navigator, were displayed at half mast yesterday, in respect to the memory of King Charles of Sweden, who died at Nesimo, on the evening of the 18th inst

SPECIAL MEETING —The Council will hold a special meeting this evening at 7 o clock for the purpose of considering the act reported by the Committee on Water Supply. A full attendance is desirable.

AMUSING —Balky teams at the foot of Stark street continue to afford infinite diversion to crowds of spectators, about the hotel balconies and sidewalks

Indian Missions and Missionaries

MOST REVERENT ADMINISTRATION THE PIONEER AND HAVEN OF HER FAMILY IN THE FAR NORTHWEST

The following letter published in the Republic giving a biography of one so well known in Oregon as Archbishop Blanchet will be read with much interest by many of our readers The writer says

SIR In a late issue of your excellent paper I saw with great pleasure a notice of the Northwest Catholic Missions and the mission ary life of Father Croquet one of the most zealous and saintly priests in the country

Still we must bear in mind that the revered name heading this communication was the first priest who brought tidings of joy to the Indians of the Northwest and the first who unfurled the standard of the cross among the children of the forest who were yet mowning in the shadow of barbarism It is owing to the great piety and zeal of Archbishop Blanchet that more than one hundred thousand Indians have been drawn from Paganism to the worship of the true God, and are now in heaven and on earth passing the Most high with thankful canticles Rev Father Croquet and other zealous missionaries have been and are still, the co laborers of Archbishop Blanchet their revered leader in the great work of evangelizing the untutored children of the Northwest

Archbishop Blanchet was born in Canada in 1792, of a wealthy and most respectable family That family has produced archbishops bishops and priests and many men noted for high talents and rare worth in the secular walks of life He was educated in Quebec, and was distinguished as a student for profundity and brilliancy After being exalted to the priesthood he created a profound sensation, fanned the smouldering fires of faith in Catholics and converted many protestants While still a young priest a preference vested a certain township in the diocese of Quebec He was ordered thither to administer the comforts of religion to the afflicted He did so taking neither race nor religion into consideration in his great work of comforting the pestilence stricken people Such was the influence of his piety and courage in this great crisis when others fled panic-stricken, leaving friends and acquaintances to perish miserably that he made numerous converts, and when the plague was stayed the citizens the Protestant citizens presented the good priest with public testimonials for this godly devotion and heroism

Archbishop Blanchet arrived in the Far West on November 24 1838 accompanied by another holy man, Monsieur Demers who in 1847 was consecrated Bishop of Vancouver's Island

Archbishop Blanchet, on his arrival at Vancouver—now Washington Territory—built a church and dedicated it under the especial patronage of St James He located missions among the trappers and Indians in Oregon, Washington Territory and Vancouver's Island In fact his jurisdiction extended from Prince Charlotte Island in the north to the boundaries of California in the south from Puget Sound in the west to the Rocky mountains in the east

Archbishop Blanchet was also accompanied by another celebrated companion, Very Rev Father De Smet The two great priests divided the immense territory under their charge Archbishop Blanchet took that portion lying west of the Rocky mountains and Father De Smet that portion lying east of the same Lake St Francis Xavier in Japan the two great missionaries, by their zeal and ceaseless devotion, built churches from one end of the continent —as the diocese might be called—to the other and christened numberless bands of Indians, who still proclaim the glory of God and bless and revere their teachers and benefactors

Archbishop Blanchet, in 1864 received from Rome a Bull making him Bishop of Drasa in partibus infidelium In the autumn of 1844 he started for Canada and was consecrated Bishop He immediately proceeded to Europe to bring back workers for the Indians He visited Rome and was received by Pope Gregory XVI., then filling the chair of Peter He laid before the Pontiff the immediate wants of his mission, and was at once appointed Archbishop of Oregon, with two or three suffragan Bishops After having accomplished this much, he knelt at the feet of the Holy Father, receiving his apostolic blessing, he then went to Paris and recruited several missionaries, and on the 3d of February, 1847, he weighed anchor in the harbor of Brest, France, with fourteen priests, three lay Brothers of the company of Jesus and six Sisters of Notre Dame The names of these great young Priests, who volunteered to sacrifice home, country friends, civilization and the pleasures of civilized life, to carry the faith to the red man, and lay their bones in the wilderness for the glory of God deserve all honor and praise Their names were Fathers Toussaint, Mesplie, Gazzoli Gatz, Memitre Lebas Delevand Pretot Delorme, Jayol, Veyret and McCormack The other names have escaped my memory Doubtless some of the missionaries themselves can supply you with them The good ly company arrived at Portland Oregon on the 10th of August, 1847 There was only one building in Portland at that time Archbishop Blanchet proceeded to Oregon City—then a village of twenty houses—and from there to St Paul's An immense demonstration was arranged by the trappers and Indians, and the young priests were astonished to find the faith of the red man as enthusiastic as was that in their own countries

During the Bishop's absence in Europe several churches had been built—one in St Paul's one in St Louis and one in Oregon City The latter was the Cathedral and the See of the Archbishop at the time

Now commenced the work of evangelization in earnest The secular priests were directed to take the western missions and the Jesuit Fathers the northern The pioneer Archbishop during the whole of his missionary life thirty four years has practiced piety austerity and and abnegation making himself the servant and the friend of all the better to spread the faith throughout that rugged country and preach the Crucified to all men Archbishop Blanchet is now almost at the end of his earthly and will soon begin his eternal life Although enfeebled in body—being now eighty two years old—his soul is still as young and as strong as when first he turned his back upon civilization and his face toward the wilderness He sees with unbounded joy his diocese in a most flourishing condition is surrounded by good priests grand churches fine congregations of whites and noble Indian missions He sees schools and colleges and many convents, where the rising generation will come for intelligence and faith

The works of this great man are truly wonderful but as this letter has already become lengthy I will reserve a short review of them for another article

He can exclaim with St Paul cursum consummavi fidem servavit in reliquo reposita est mihi corona justitiæ quam reddet mihi justus judex SACERDOS

New York August 24th 1874

CAPITAL WANTED IN THE MINES —The Silver State complains of the want of means to develop the mining interests in that locality It says The celebrated Arizona mine now worth an even million, was for years the property of poor men unable properly to develop it and went begging at one dollar per foot There are several mines partially developed at the present time in Buena Vista Star and Indian Districts which show as well some of them better than the Arizona did with an equal expenditure of labor We speak knowingly on this subject and vouch for the correctness of the statement To day there are hundreds of tons of ore that assays from $30 to $ per ton piled in the dumps of mines in this and adjoining districts practically worthless The owners are unable to build reduction works and the ore will not pay to ship The metal which it contains cannot be made available in furthering developments on the mines which produced it consequently but rarely four men are employed on any of these mines and frequently the poor man who owns them are compelled to suspend operations on them altogether

A custom mill is our greatest need at present With facilities for reducing ores at reasonable rates and within reasonable distance of our mines we could rely on our own resources and act independently

I keep it before the people that a resolution in favor of common schools was defeated in convention of Missouri

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

FRIDAY EVENING Sept 20 1874

Gold in New York to-day 11o

Portland Legal Tender rates 89@ buying 8 @ selling

Wheat in Liverpool 13s@13s 6d

There was motion in Wall street New York on Thursday and the unusual number of failures recently reported at the East has created considerable unrest in the monetary circles here but has exercised no influence on the market which appears to be no better or worse A bill has been introduced into the Legislature now in session to repeal the present usury law of the State, or rather to amend it by providing that some part or its contract for as much as 2 per a month While according to our judgment this will not tend materially to relax the financial market of the country we could ever see why the man who has money to loan should be restricted to a certain price for its use it more than the man who has a horse to loan to one who needs a horse But no thing remains as a dead fact and it is no statutory provision has ever yet been enacted that was a bar to occasional issues of closeness in financial matters Show us a community which has not experienced a monetary pressure in the course of its history and we might be led to believe that a law or the absence of a law on the subject of interest on money positively controls such matters

A careful observation of the amount of treasure shipped from the Pacific coast to New York and elsewhere since January 1st, 1872—not less than $30 000 000 in round numbers—and the fact that $6 000 000 are said to be now lying idle on special deposit in one of the San Francisco Banks being money made in stock speculations by different parties to our mind accounts for the tightness of the money market here and elsewhere throughout the Pacific States and Territories. The fact that New York now feels the demand by the Western States to move the Grain crop we would deem rather an indication in our favor The Commercial Reporter of this date says

New York advices note a growing stringency in that market in consequence of the increased call from the Western and Southern States to meet the crops which are reported quite heavy This increased call comes in before the moving of the crops sets in effectively which when at its highest will drain New York until the money market East will become closer and more stringent than known this year The San Francisco money market is reported easier with the rate of discount ruling fully half

The New York Shipping List of the 19th says

Grain rates have again advanced the off rings being large and the tonnage supply light with an active business Great Britain especially for the ports In the other departments the week's little change The Pacific trade continues to be restricted by the high price of coal and the few charges made have been at relatively low rates. Vessels of all classes are scarce and business is soon what restricted in consequence The indications all point to a strong market during the fall and winter

There is now on the way to the ports in all nations and vessels still in ballast tonnage of about 6 000 tons but we learn that most of these are already under charter

No change is worthy of special mention in our review of the conditions however favor an increase in the volume of trade Remittances and orders from the interior are coming in slowly and no special discouragement is felt by dealers Two things are much speculated upon in business circles these are the scarcity of money market and the fear of a scarcity of shipping facilities for the Grain crop A removal of the causes would surely bring about a better condition of affairs in the other

Receipts of produce are reported as fair and prices are firm The market is well supplied with all produce for home consumption and rates are given in our tables as near correct as they can be obtained
